Voice of Opinion

By James Thrasher

The Senate War Investigating Committee's probe of Howard Hughes was a good deal like a Fourth of July rocket. Everyone stood around with jaws agape when it started off with a roar and a shower of sparks. But nobody cared much when or where the burned and blackened fragments were floating back to earth.

Well, for the record, the last fragment of the Hughes investigation has landed in the form of a minority report by the committee's Democratic members. The majority report was submitted last month, and the minority members have taken some exceptions to its contents.

This report called Mr. Hughes' flying boat an "unwise and unjustifiable expense as a wartime emergency project." It branded his photo reconnaissance planes "a failure as a war project." It criticized him for showering lavish entertainment, gifts, etc., on government officials. And it related the story of Hughes' alleged attempt to bribe the time of pressure put upon him by Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers.

The Democratic members point out that the government has accepted delivery of both the flying boat and the reconnaissance planes. They point out that these and other alleged matters never saw combat. But, they say, the Hughes contracts, which constituted only a fraction of one percent of what the government spent on war planes, are the only ones that have been investigated.

The minority report recalls that, in a 1943 report of this same committee, Senators Brewster and Ferguson subscribed to a recommendation that experimental work in this same flying boat be continued. It agrees that Mr. Hughes would have told the Meyers demands. And, without defending the spending of money for entertainment, it brings up the fact that Mr. Hughes spent $7,000,000 of his own money in developing these aircraft.

The main point of the minority report, however, is one that has been raised before by outsiders: about congressional committee procedure. We do not suggest that both parties have not employed this procedure. But it is interesting to hear criticism from among legislative leadership.

The Democratic senators find that the majority report "does not, in many cases, make plain, direct findings, but might by inference and innuendo imply grave wrongdoings not expressly charged. Also, it does not absolve from guilt where evidence indicates such absolution."

There may be political motives behind this minority criticism, as there may have been behind the Hughes probe. But the fact remains that damnation by innuendo is a too-frequent practice of congressional investigators and that it is a practice which can damage reputations and prejudice the public by conclusions drawn from the flimsiest evidence or no evidence at all.

We agree with the minority's report's conclusion: "Recognizing the great value of congressional investigations to our system of government and the necessity for continuing of broad powers in the committees of Congress, nonetheless we believe the protection of citizens requires that they should know their rights, duties and immunities in such proceedings."

Oil Interests to Watch Turbo Driller at Bradley Test

Oil interest will focus this month on a full-scale field test of a turbo-drill in the Bradley area of the South Arkansas. The tests will be made by Engineering Development Co. and Spartan Drilling Co. with headquarters in Dallas.

An official of the company said an attempt would be made to drill to a 11,000 feet with the turbo unit. He added that final details on the test will be announced and invited interested persons to "visit."

The turbo driller could revolutionize oil well drilling, it was predicted.

6 Powers Adopt Plan for West German State

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, June 7 — (AP) — In the face of certain Russian opposition, the western powers announced today a five-point proposal for creating a separate, federal government in western Germany.

At the same time they revealed measures to block any future German aggression.

The agreements, results of a six power western nation conference which ended at London a week ago, were announced simultaneously here and in Europe.

They are subject to formal acceptance by the governments of the United States, Britain, France, and the low countries and a stiff fight over them is expected at Paris.

The five steps projected for creating a federal German government are based on the expressed belief that the German people themselves should take maximum responsibility for each step.

The steps include an authorization meeting of the Allied military chiefs and German heads of each western German state, election of delegates to a constituent assembly, drafting of a constitution by the assembly, ratification of the constitution by the German people, and consideration of needed revisions in German state boundaries.

It reportedly was to meet French security fears and ease French acceptance of steps to fit western Germany into European reconstruction, that the three western powers laid down their most comprehensive agreement thus far projected for keeping Germany under control.

Another victory for the French was contained in an agreement for an international control of the Ruhr, in which United States, United Kingdom, France, Benelux countries and Germany would participate, and which does not involve the political separation of the Ruhr area from Germany.

"It does, however, contemplate control of distribution of coal, coke and iron ore in the Ruhr," the communiqué continued.

"In order that on the one hand industrial concentration in that area shall not become an instrument of aggression and on the other of a danger to the peace, contribution to all countries participating in a European cooperative economic program, including, of course, Germany itself."

On security, the official statement reported this general provision: "The United States, the United Kingdom and French delegates reiterated the firm views of their governments that there could not be any general withdrawal of their forces from Germany until the peace of Europe is secured and without prior consultation."

"During this period there should be no general withdrawal of the forces of the United States, the United Kingdom, France or the United Kingdom without prior consultation. It was further recommended that the governments concerned should consult if any of them should consider that there was a danger of aggression, or of the adoption by Germany of a policy of aggression."

Dottie Flies to Accept Her Choice

Hempstead, N. Y., June 7 — (UP) — Mrs. Dottie Lawrence set out today to collect the husband and $10,000 that a newspaper want ad won her.

"I feel just like a bride ought to feel—thrilled and excited," the 28-year-old blonde hatched girl said as she flew to meet the man of her choice.

The man the shapely divorcee chose was Dan Wicker, owner of "Daddy's Musical Bar," a Daytona Beach tavern. He was party to a dozen or more who answered her wife-for-sale ad in a local newspaper.

"Anyone who can't be happy with that guy is a moron," Mrs. Lawrence said when she saw Wicker's picture for the first time last night. "He's cute."

Mrs. Lawrence, who offered in her ad to marry any man who would give her $10,000 for the security of her two small children, said Wicker's answer to the advertisement was an 11-word telegram.

"Is you, or is you ain't gonna be my baby?"

She said she was so taken with Wicker's sense of humor that she wired back:

"Do you or don't you want me for your baby?"

Mrs. Lawrence said that she had talked several times by long distance telephone with Wicker, who is divorced and the father of one child. She said the matter of the $10,000 had come up several times.

"I do wish, though, that I had met Dan under different circumstances. I know instinctively that we have a lot in common."

Mrs. Lawrence left her two children at her parents' home. She said she didn't know whether she would return to New York before the marriage or not.

"Daddy's boss, now," she said. "He sent me these plane reservations, and whatever he decides to do we'll do. He did say something about us getting married in Mexico City."

"It's just like we always dreamed it would be,"

Three in State Die in Weekend Accidents

By the Associated Press
A refinery fire and two traffic accidents caused deaths in Arkansas over the weekend.

Herman P. Breazeal, 37, El Dorado, was burned fatally in a spectacular fire which burned waste gasoline outside storage tanks at the Root Petroleum Company plant, where he was employed.

Breazeal's clothing ignited when the fire started with an explosion, a company official said properly damage was slight as the fire did not reach gasoline inside the tanks. Origin was undetermined.

Breazeal was unmarried. His survivors include a brother and three sisters, one of whom is Mrs. Chester P. Williams of Fayetteville.

Seventeen-year-old Louise Cruch of near Hickory Ridge, Cross county, was killed when she was struck by a truck as she alighted from an automobile in front of her home.

Tennessee Tye, 26-year-old Negro, was found crushed to death under an overturned automobile at Texarkana.

State police said the traffic deaths brought the accident toll for this year to 132, compared to 127 for the corresponding period last year.

Senate Drops Race Issue From Service Bill

Washington, June 7 — (AP) — The Senate, pressing toward action on draft legislation, voted today to drop a proposal to forbid race segregation in the armed services.

The vote was not a direct test on how the Senate feels about race segregation. Senate leaders were confronted with the prospect of a filibuster from Southerners if the proposal was not sidetracked.

They are anxious to get final action on the draft measure which, in the House, the department of defense the question whether the army, navy and air force are to have units of mixed races.

Senator Langer (R-ND), offered an amendment to prohibit discrimination on the ground of race or color or religion in assignments or induction into the armed services.

It was tabled on a motion by Chairman Gurney (R-SD) of the Senate Committee.

The motion was not debatable. This was the first test on a set of seven Langer amendments covering most of President Truman's "Civil Rights" measure such as anti-lynch, anti-poll tax and anti-segregation.

Some senators who favor the civil rights program opposed Langer's amendments. They said that the military manpower bill is not the place to fight out such issues. Gurney told his colleagues before the vote that the two-year draft bill "is of paramount importance."

He said civil rights legislation should "stand on its own feet" and not be placed on the draft bill.

But even with the Langer amendments out of the way, at least three other battles stand between the draft bill and Senate passage. They are:

1. The Senate (D-GA) and other Southerners are backing an amendment that would require the services to set up all-white and all-Negro units so enlisted men who asked to serve and live only with men of their own race.

2. The Senate (D-CA) expects the Senate to approve his plan to require that President Truman start any actual drafting, but only after a 90-day delay.

3. The Senate bill would make registration and induction effective as soon as the bill becomes law. Capewhart would delay any actual drafting until the president proclaimed this necessary.

A similar provision is pending in the House.

Foreign Legion — Senator Lodge (R-Mass) also promises a floor battle for his plan to authorize the army to recruit 50,000 aliens from 18 to 35 years. They could become citizens of the United States after five years satisfactory service.

Lewis Starts Coal Talks With Denunciations

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, June 7 — (AP) — A new deadlock threatened today between John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators.

They opened contract talks and recessed in two hours "very far apart" after the United Mine workers chief tossed in a new demand.

Operators said the union leader insisted that any new agreement provide for paying all commitments made under the 1946 welfare fund. This fund finances distress benefits and is about exhausted.

The operators rejected this. Charles A. O'Neil, spokesman for the owners, said in reply to a reporter's question:

"I hope we're not deadlocked, but we're certainly far apart. The groups will meet again at 1 p.m. EST tomorrow."

Washington, June 7 — (AP) — John L. Lewis opened soft coal contract talks today with a blast of denunciation at the operators.

He called them "fat cats x x x dig deep and without restraint into the treasury."

He made two points clear about any agreement replacing the contract expiring June 30:

1. The United Mine Workers have no wage proposals, but they "expect improvements."

2. They want guarantees under the 1947 miners' welfare fund which has paid out nothing because it is tied up in a legal dispute.

He put the next move up to the operators. "The miners will consider any offer 'which you may persuade yourselves to utter,'" Lewis said.

This was in a statement with which Lewis opened the negotiations.

He scolded told the operators they had reduced collective bargaining "to mockery."

Lewis said he and his union attended the court-ordered bargaining conference "only through duress."

He was directed to negotiate with the Southern Coal Producers Association by Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, against his will and under protest.

Goldsborough acted under the Taft-Hartley act which Lewis called "the first major thrust of Fascist tyranny in the republic."

Directing his remarks at the operators, the UMW leader said: "You and your industry are magnificently opulent. Your 1946 profits were without parallel. In 1947 you increased them twice and even three. In recent months you have leveled additional increases upon each ton of coal sold."

"You are digging deep and without restraint into the national purse. From time to time you raise curbs against the men who have leveled additional increases upon each ton of coal sold."

"The gullible public is bewildered by your outcries, you pluck more dimes from the consumers of coal."

"In this fashion and with hard-boiled conscience you have become the most corrupt of our native fat cats."

Modern Boxers Lack Stamina of the Old Boys—They Just Won't Train Hard Enough

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP) — Lou Stillman runs the best known sweat shop in America, but it isn't producing as much sweat as it used to.

"That's one reason boxing isn't the game it once was," he said. "You won't train hard enough," said Lou, who is the Elizabeth Arden of the job and jolt set.

For thirty-one years Lou has operated Stillman's gym, an international spa where professional boxers—the best and the worst—beat each other into shape for their next fight. It is also a kind of fistie stock exchange where sharp-faced managers bank their brogue together and average boxers and gloved fists whack into people's faces.

"I figure 99 per cent of the boxers train here," he said. "I've had all the champions—from Dempsey to Joe Louis."

About 75 fighters a day work out on the bags or keep the three rings busy. The boxers in the clips here are going down and the young ones coming up by train by boxing each other—anyway.

Stillman provides only the gym, the rings, the punching bags, and the showers. And maybe a band-aid here and there. He doesn't charge by the bruise. The boxers pay $5 a month for a "sweat locker," $10 a month for a room. Spectators pay out four-bits a visit.

His life as tycoon of the open bare and babo of the expanding biceps has conferred upon Lou a good-sized fortune, a dual personality, and the arbitrary rule of a philosophy shark. His vocabulary:

"Drop dead!" He greets a bum or drifter with a voice like shovelled coal. He also keeps a lengthening "throw-em-out" list of boxing hangers-on. Every time they climb the stairs he has them bounced down the stairs like used pingpong balls.

"This is a tough business," Lou said. "I learned early there was a rough element in boxing, who'd run the place and between fighters and fighters. The cause is usually spontaneous combustion arising from disputes concerning the dollar."

Lou's grating snarl is enough to break up most fights. But he long ago put in a house rule banning knives and guns.

"You'd be surprised at some of the well known boxers I've had to take knives from," he said.

Lou says modern boxers are more intelligent and better educated than the flat-nose heroes of yesterday, but lack their stamina.

"The oldtimers—fighters like Dempsey and Benny Leonard—really worked to get in condition. The kids today want to train with one leg in the gym and the other in the street."

Lou no longer will have much to do with a muscle after working hours. He's tired of them. Doesn't like to see them often, and doesn't associate with the fight crowd. He has given up his hobbies—horseback riding and oil painting—and recently quit taking piano lessons.

"I couldn't get along with the kids," he said. "I wanted to learn to play tennis and she wanted me to learn to play scales."

Did he ever box himself? Lou looked around the gym forest of sweating arms, legs and bobbing heads.

"Think I'm crazy?"

Indian Soldier Went AWOL Via Parachute

North Little Rock, June 7 — (AP) — Police here today quoted an army corporal as saying he parachuted from an army transport plane near Memphis in effort to get to his home to see a recently-born child.

Patrolmen R. E. Bennett and Thurman Shelly identified the corporal as Lee Orange and said, he told them he was a full-blooded American Indian of Arnaparko, Okla.

They quoted him as saying that when he was denied a furlough from an undisclosed army station to see his new offspring, he left anyhow, got a seat on an army transport bound for California and when he was over what he thought was Oklahoma parachuted to the ground without knowledge of the pilot.

He learned he had miscalculated when he learned he was several miles east of Memphis. He started hitchhiking for Oklahoma.

Police picked him up yesterday carrying a parachute, minus the chute lines which he said he had burned off. Later he was turned over to officials at the army post at Hot Springs.

Third Flood Is Forming in Oregon

Portland, Ore., June 7 — (AP) — A third flood was forming in the Columbia River today, just as the army called in a fresh engineering command to battle the still raging second crest.

The U. S. Weather Bureau warned this morning that high temperatures in the Columbia river's headwaters in the Canadian Rockies are starting another fresh crest.

"We will have high water with us quite a while," warned River Forecaster Elmer Fisher. "For the next weeks, anyway."

He said the Columbia river, which crested here at 29.7 feet yesterday, would fall a few inches during the next two days and then rise once more.

The forecast a Thursday and Friday level of 29.5 feet and he could not say whether it might rise still higher afterward. The news came grimly to the men already struggling desperately to hold 100 miles of weakening dikes from Portland to the sea.

Twenty-six officers of the Army Engineer Corps rushed to critical points in the heavily barricaded lower valley as the great river built up pressure with its second crest wave in a week.

The reinforcements flew in during the night from Fort Belvoir, Va.

The time was short, the task huge: prevent expansion of the flood toll by the Columbia and Fraser rivers in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Canada's British Columbia—26 dead, 52 missing about 60,000 homeless, damage of perhaps $140,000,000.

The second crest was deep into the already hard hit industrial area around Portland and Vancouver, across the Columbia in Washington it was surging downriver, building up the current that has been gnawing away the dikes since the first crest rolled down six days ago.

The decision today raised another question about which controversy could easily arise—Does Williams automatically become the nominee for the district since Mrs. Hale did not qualify before the deadline in the other counties?

Committee Secretary Harvey Combs said it was mathematically possible for Mrs. Hale to get more votes in Pulaski county alone than Williams did in all four counties. He expressed personal view that if such an event did occur Mrs. Hale could be considered the qualified chancellor. He also said he thought it possible for her name to be written in on the ballots in the other counties.

However, Williams said he now considered himself the only qualified candidate for the post at the Democratic primaries. Williams said write in votes were not permissible in primaries.

(The Democratic State Committee meets here June 30. Some attorneys expressed the view at the capital today that this group might take some action to clarify the question if Mrs. Hale desired to get on the ballot in the other counties.)

(The committee met here in special session last Saturday. Newsman learned that a resolution had been drawn to deal with this particular issue. However, the subject was not raised.)

The court affirmed a Clark chancery award of $1,750 to Ralph Williams against the Central Surety life corporation. The corporation had insured Williams' automobile against theft, larceny, robbery or pilferage. Williams sold the automobile to a man who gave a worthless check in payment. The Supreme Court held that the Arkansas statute against false pretense was covered by the policy.

Miller Chancery court was affirmed in its interpretation of the claims of the heirs of the late Pearl C. Price. In controversy was the chancery court's award of the deceased's home to Mrs. W. R. Price, and the granting to Mrs. Marion Dale McCollum and other heirs $2,400 in a bank account in which Mrs. W. R. Price claimed an heir's interest.

Little Rock, June 7 — (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled today that all of the electors in the first chancery district must vote on the candidates for a second division of the county.

The unanimous opinion reversed Pulaski Chancery Court's holding that only the voters of Pulaski county could vote on the candidates.

The decree dissolved an injunction restraining Democratic State Committee officials from certifying the name of Attorney General Guy E. Williams to the other three counties in the district — Lonoke, Prairie and White.

Williams, master of chancery of the first division, Mrs. Hale obtained the injunction in lower court, contending that since the division had jurisdiction only in Pulaski county only the voters of this county should vote in the race.

Williams qualified in all four counties, Mrs. Hale only in Pulaski.

Picnic in Washington
With Mrs. A. E. Slusser, President, the Pat Cleburne Chapter, U.D.C. held their June meeting in Washington, Arkansas in the old State Capitol building, with a picnic luncheon. Mrs. Wiley Walker of Arkansas Division United Daughters of the Confederacy, was honor guest. With the help of the Washington ladies, the building was bright with gladioli and roses on the floor and speaker's platform and hydrangeas and lilies in the picnic table. Mrs. C. S. Lowthorp gave the invocation. Mrs. R. E. Jackson, program chairman, opened the program and introduced Mrs. Rosa Shipley Crews who read an original poem, "The Call of the Private". Mrs. William H. Etter presented five little girls, who were seated at a table, and each in turn gave splendid papers on the historical background and pioneer days of Washington. The work was completed by Miss Margaret Haynes who teaches in Washington High School. Mrs. Wiley Walker, Division President, addressed the group. Among the many fine things that were said, she made a special emphasis on the importance of the young people and the children's chapters. The Rev. S. A. Whitlow was then introduced and he spoke on Jefferson Davis and firmly emphasized the nobility, qualities of that great soldier, statesman and leader of men.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Hounds Boy

Dear Dorothy Dix: Can you help a young man who is being persecuted by a girl who is determined to marry him, although he tells her positively that he has never loved her; that he will never marry her, and that he wants her to quit hounding him? He never courts her anywhere, and when she begged him to marry her at a dance he absolutely refused. I have never really tried to make him love her, never did, and never will, and that he is in love with another girl. This girl has even announced their wedding day. The girl's family are bringing pressure on the boy to prod him to marry her, but so far he has resisted. Isn't there some way that he can rid himself of this pest?

Answer: When a girl throws away all decent reserve and tries to force an unwilling man to marry her, she is a subject for the psychiatrist. Instead of an adviser to the lover, unless she is insane, she is bound to know that if she finally badgered the young man into marrying her it would bring her no happiness. He would regard her with disgust and they would live a cat and dog life in which he would always be fighting to be free and she struggling in vain to hold him.

BEWILDERED WIFE
Answer: Not a chance. You killed your husband's love by your selfishness and neglect, and there is no magic that can ever put another heartbreak in his breast for you. A dead love is the dearest thing in the world, and it is folly for you to imagine that by hanging on to your husband you can win him back.

You threw away a good man's love. The only atonement you can make is to be a good enough sport to bow yourself out of the picture.

WORRIED MOTHER
Answer: Be glad that your young daughter is popular and has many dates, instead of a few. There is safety in numbers, and if you girl has a lot of boy friends she won't think that she is in love and want to get married while she is still a child. A girl should know many boys before she narrows herself down to one.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband has asked me to give him a divorce. When I refused, he told me that he was in love with a woman who has given him more love and companionship than he has ever had.

YOU WOMEN WHO SUFFER
HOT FLASHES then
FEEL CHILLY-

Here's Good News!
Are you between the ages of 38 and 52 and going through that trying functional "middle-age" period peculiar to women? Does this make you suffer from hot flashes, feel clammy, so nervous, irritable, weak? Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms! It's famous for this!

Many "middle-age" women take Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against this distress.

Pinkham's Compound contains no opiates—no habit-forming drugs. It helps nature (you know what we mean!). This great medicine also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect.

NOTE: Or you may prefer LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S TABLETS with added iron.

NEW YORK COTTON

New York, June 8.—(U)—Cotton futures were irregular in moderately active dealings today with a good deal of evening up operations in nearby July and switching to later months, anticipating first notice day delivery settlement. Consignment house and New Orleans liquidation was influenced by the continued confusion of the export situation. New crop months sold off on crop reports.

Cotton futures rallied into new high ground for the day in the final hour of trading.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, June 7.—(U)—Rapid expansion of winter wheat harvest in the southwest caused an easier undertone in the bread cereal today. Much of the selling came from the southwest and was of a hedging nature. Prices held firm above the government loan level.

In contrast to wheat, feed grains were firm most of the day. The buying of corn and oats came in the form of a steadily increasing the Midwest and fairly heavy cash corn offerings by the country.
Bookings exceeded 100,000 bushels.
Most buying came from previous short sellers.

Wheat closed 3-4 1-4 lower, July $2.29-2.29 1-4, corn was 12 1-2 higher, July $2.16 1-4, oats were 38 lower to 1 cent higher, July 93 1-8-1-4, and soybeans were 1 1-2 higher, July $1.17 1-2

When in the spot trade, wheat trend today: basis unchanged; receipts 26 cars. Corn was 1-12 to 2-1-2 cents lower; basis also 1-12 to 2-1-2 cts; bookings 122,000 bushels; shipping sales 36,000 bushels; receipts 221 cars. Oats were unchanged to 1-12 cents more. Basis unchanged to a cent lower shipping sales 20,000 bushels; receipts 46
cars. Soybeans receipts seven cars.

Letters to #### the Editor

This is your newspaper. Write to it. Letters criticizing the editorial policy or commenting upon facts in the news columns, are equally welcome. Every writer must sign his name and address but publication of name
may be withheld if requested.

Editor The Star: On the afternoon of June 2nd, a party of Washington visitors from several states requested a short audience with Senator J. William Fulbright, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, to learn his feelings on the proposed Mundt Bill.

The Committee was in the middle of hearings on the Bill, and the group felt it was incumbent on the Senator to receive, at least briefly, not only Americans from Arkansas, but also interested Americans.

Two secretaries and an administrative assistant in the Senator's office left differently. Although Miss Webb, Mrs. Young and Mr.
Yinling at first promised solemnly that the Senator would see the group, they then retreated behind a locked office door, which stayed locked all afternoon. If one of Senator's Arkansas constituents had happened by, he or she would have been able to get to see even the representatives of their representatives.

The Senator himself proved elusive in a rather undignified manner. At the Senate, a page sent in with the request for an audience.
Reported back that the Senator had left the Capitol. But just then he was observed from the Senate Gallery seated at his desk, and a second page was sent in. "The pressure of business," the page quoted Fulbright as saying, "will not allow me to leave the floor."
(At this time there were six Senators on the floor. Two were reading newspapers.)

The group sent in a letter. The Senator returned it unopened. Later, the letter was passed through the door of the Senator's office, which was opened two inches to receive it.

Such childish conduct on the part of an elected representative of the American people is not in the best traditions of our democracy. Apparently the Senator, pre-judging a controversial issue, cared neither to explain his position or hear it commented on. We hope Senator Fulbright has not fallen victim to a hysteria that leaves him timid before the opinions and criticisms of his fellow Americans. The people of Arkansas can play an important part in recalling to the Senator the important responsibilities and dignities of his high office. Sincerely,
JANICE EVANS

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, June 7.—(U)—The odds should be about 1,000 to 1, though we don't know any bookie who'd give that price, that Muscles Stran-dman won't duplicate Bobby Jones' celebrated golfing grand slam.

The chances of even adding the U. S. open title to his British amateur championship this week aren't what you'd call bright. Yet the husky Toledo boy probably is playing as good as home as Bobby ever did and would be an even money bet to take Jones when Bobby was at his peak. The difference is that a lot more people play better now than they did 20 years ago and scoring is easier. It's lower lower. If you have to pick a winner for the 1948 open, string along with Ben Hogan. He shot 275 to win the Los Angeles Open over the Rivera course winter before last and they say he plans that layout
as if he owned it.

When Notre Dame's Frank Leahy visited a football clinic at the University of Mississippi recently, a cute little co-ed accosted him in the hotel lobby and asked for his autograph. Leahy, who had signed willingly and for good measure tossed in his brightest smile—
the kind that goes to 100 pound prep halfbacks. The gal peeked at the paper and plaintively asked: "But aren't you going to sign it 'admirral'?"

AWOL

Harry Mendel reports from Joe Loma's training camp that the heavyweight champion is hours watching film of his first fight with Jersey Joe Walcott. First he studies Walcott's moves, then runs the film again to observe his own mistakes. Loma's comment, says Mendel, is: "When I see the opening I missed, I guess I was the man who wasn't there."

LIQUOR!

LIQUOR!

LIQUOR!

Beginning last Saturday my opponent started a "whispering campaign" in an effort to make the Mayor's race a wet and dry issue. Circulars are being passed around quietly and will probably break out in the open at the last minute.

I did not wait until the last minute to make my position clear. Several days ago I stated in the newspaper that when I am elected Mayor, I will appoint a Chief of Police whom I confidently believe will enforce the liquor laws in our city in a highly satisfactory manner.

It is the belief of the majority of the people that the liquor laws have not been enforced as they should. My opponent has been City Attorney for to these many, many years; as such official, he has been in a position to do something about it. Any lawyer will tell you that to be true. What has he done about it?

High-sounding words are one thing — action is another.
